

Annual and Monthly Occupancy Rates, Meeting Rooms

This year's occupancy numbers are on track to match or surpass previous years. Programming has a large influence over these numbers. For example, September is often our busiest month at the Main Library because of JLF. This year we had a large Book Sale at the Main Library that took up several rooms for several days in Oct.

Both the branches are seeing more activation of their meeting room with the addition of the Branch Programming Specialist. You can also see that occupancy rates have picked up at the branches in Sept. and Oct. because of the increase in programming.

2019 Daily/Hourly Occupancy Distribution, Meeting Rooms

Peak occupancy varies by location. However, all location see a spike in usage in the evenings on weeknights between 5 and 7 p.m. Other spikes in use are strongly influenced by library programs. For example, both Meadows & Reynolds meeting room have hours with 100% occupancy because their storytime program use of the space. Some low occupancy times are very hard to increase use, for example Saturday or Sunday from 5 - 6 p.m. These extremely rates pull down our average occupancy rate.
